

Skip Hall

Recruiting Specialist, Senior Strategist, Speaker

Skip Hall understands how to recruit, coach and build excellent teams. He shares his signature keynote, “Coaching the Doctrine of Excellence from the Locker Room to the Board Room” - a set of principles that result in recruiting and retaining great teams and achieving superior results in sports, business and life.

Skip is a recruiting specialist, senior strategist and professional speaker. He is part of Price Associates, an elite team of leadership performance consultants. He blends his prior experience as a college football coach with his executive coaching expertise to teach his principles of leadership.

Skip is the former head football coach at Boise State University, assistant head coach at the University of Washington and the University of Missouri, and assistant coach at Colorado and Kent State. During his 30 years as a football coach, his teams went to 12 bowl games, including 3 Rose Bowls and the Orange Bowl. Coach Hall had the privilege of coaching and working with players and future coaches such as Jack Lambert, Warren Moon, Nick Saban, Gary Pinkel, and Chuck Pagano.

After 30 years of coaching college football, Skip transferred his coaching skills to the business arena with Aflac; serving in multiple leadership roles over 15 years. Skip and his son Chris are also the Principals of Hall & Associates, a financial services firm. Coach Hall joined Price Associates in 2013 - continuing his record of recruiting, coaching and building excellent teams.

Skip and his wife Virginia have two children and three grandchildren. He enjoys golf, watching football and speaking with faith-based groups.

Speaking

Known as a superb storyteller, Coach Hall is frequently asked to motivate teams of all sizes on “being excellent”. He is available for keynotes and workshops. Coach Hall’s fees vary depending on the format, but always include a prep session with the host and all handouts.

Skip is one of those rare individuals who brings a wealth of wisdom and experience from two entirely different fields. A masterful recruiter, coach and team builder at the highest levels of NCAA football, then similar recruiting and leadership skills in the world of business. He is the ultimate ‘coach’s coach’.

– Ron Price, CEO, Price Associates

Skip is available for keynotes, ½-day and full-day workshops and retreats.
